CONGRESS.

THIRTY-THIRD CONGRESS-FIRST SESSION.

In the House of Representatives yesterday, after our report had closed,

The resolutions of the Massachusetts Legislature, against the repeal of the Missouri Compromise, were presented by Mr. Appleton, laid on the table, and ordered to be printed.

The death of General Armstrong was then formally announced, and the House adjourned until Monday next.

Senate, Saturday, February 25, 1854.

Senate, Saturday, February 25, 1854.

Mr. Fosseuden presented several memorials from citizens of Maine, against the repeal of the Missouri Compromise.

Mr. Cooper presented the memorial of members of the Society of Friends, against the extension of Slavery.

Mr. Brodhead presented memorials against the passage of the Nebraska bill.

The Senate proceeded to the consideration of the resolution of Mr. Stuart, directing the Committee on Commerce of the Senate to report without delay a bill making appropriations for the improvement of rivers and harbors.

Mr. Hamlin desired the resolution should be postponed till Tuesday.

Mr. Stuart opposed the postponement. He saw no probability of any bill of this kind reaching the Senate from the House until the usual late period of the session. It was therefore the duty of the Senate to act upon this measure.

Mr. Cass agreed with his colleague. He was in favor of the system of river and harbor improvements by Congress, and opposed to transferring it to the States. He was opposed altogether to the system of levylog tonnage during

Mr. Benjamin supported the resolution.
Mr. Hamlin said the resolution proposed a change in the practice of originating appropriation bills, and several Senators desired to be

The resolution was then postponed.

The resolution was then postponed.

The Senate resumed the consideration of the joint resolution making suitable testimonials to the captains and crews of the vessels who took part in the resous of the passengers on the steamer San Francisco.

It was considered, and they, in consequence of the absence of Mr. Gwin, was postponed.

Mr. Cass presented several memorials, praying that Congress would take measures to secure to Americans abroad, freedom of religious worship. He said he saw in an English paper, an avowal by Lord Clarendon, which struck him as worthy of the attention of this Government. It was an avowal that the amicable understandings between France and England ment. It was an avowal that the amicable understandings between France and England did not apply only to the Eastern question, but extended to all questione arising in either hemisphere. This avowal meant, that France and England had a perfect understanding, unitedly to resist the acquisition by the United States, of Cuba, or any other territory. He had seen some resolutions offered in the House of Representatives, to-day, and to which he gave his cordial assent. He thought it was time for Congress to give its moral support to the Administration in upholding the honor of the country.

the country.

Mr. Mason said he had seen the avowal mentioned by the Senator. But so far as Cuba was concerned, those nations had given the United States fair notice more than a year ago. It could therefore be nothing surprising. He had no doubt but that there was little diference of opinion in this country, as to the resistance by all means to any interference by European nations in the affairs of any portion of the American continent.

He did not know what the Scuator would have the Government do.

Mr. Cass said he would have a declaration y Congress, such as was contained in the res-lutions offered in the House.

Mr. Mason said that if such a proposition came from a Senator representing a more Southern State, it would be called an abstrac-tion. This Government had already received notice of the European policy as to Cuba. Mr. Bell asked how the nation had profited

Mr. Mason. By maintaining silence.

After some further remarks by Messrs.

Badger, Mason, and Weller, the matter was dropped.

The Senate proceeded to the consideration the bill to establish a Territorial Government for Nebraska.

Mr. Butler resumed his remarks upon the the subject of Slavevy, and in support of this bill. He referred to the comparisons made between the morality and intelligence of the free and slaveholding States, and cited certain statistics, which had a bearing in favor of the South in those particulars. He was averes to making these compparisons, of accursing each other with a want of intelligence, &c. He did complain, however, of the many isms prevalent at the North, which sought to corrupt the public mind, and created in it prejudices, under the guise of sickly sentimentalities. Among the guise of sickly sentimentalities. Among these he particularly denounced Abolitionism, shoomerism, and strong-minded Womanism. He condemned the interference of women with natters properly belonging to the sphere of stors, and asked whether, if South Carolina, Virginia, and Georgia, were to-morrow each o set five thousand negroes free, would Massachusetts take them and provide for them? He lid not think she would. To emancipate the laves at the South, and make no provision for heir future, would be the refinement of crudity.

He had objections to the doctrine of the light of Congress to exercise the power of sovinguty over the Territories, and consequently to be power of Congress to give unlimited authority to the Territorial Legislatures.

He maintained that the Constitution and sws of the United States applied by their own orce to all Territories of the United States, and neither Congress nor any Territorial Legislature had the power to pass any act abridging the equality of right secured to the people of all the States by that Constitution.

He would take this bill, however; and he did

He would take this bill, however; and he did He would take this bill, however; and he did o, certain that Slavery would never go to these Perritories; but the repeal of the Missouri Compromise would be the removal of a thorn which had long been festering in the side of he South. He complimented the Senator from Illinois for the boldness and fearlessness with thich he had proposed this measure.

Mr. Brown followed, in an argument against he constitutionality of the Missouri Compro-

Who Seek their Supplies in our Market.

ONE PRICE ONLY. We are now in our NEW STORE, which was erected expressly for us. We think it the most comfortable and best lighted storeroom in the city; and with increased room, facilities, and experience, deemed quite ample, we shall deal largely in

FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC DRY GOODS,

FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC DRY GOODS, of every style, all of the best qualities, and for which we shall sell cheaper than we ever have done; and in having one price only (which, in our opinion, is the only fair and equitable way of doing business) we shall maintain our self-respect, which is above all price or success. Moreover, we expect to retain all the trade of those prompt customers who have made their purchases of us for some years past, and doubtless we shall have a large accession of new customers, who prefer to buy where one fair price only is asked.

We feel that our simple word is requisite only to satisfy our former customers that the one price system is the correct one, and to their advantage; and we do not hositate to assert our belief that all candid and intelligent persons will, after an impartial examination of prices, fabric, and styles, give a one price store the preference. Those who are not judges of goods cannot fail to be impressed at once with the manifold and vast advantages to the purchaser resulting from the adoption in good faith of the one price system; it necessarily insures low prices to the purchaser, for it becomes absolutely necessary to meet at the start all competition that can be offered in prices.

Our scale of prices will be so low, and the profits so our scale of prices will be so low, and the profits so small, that we cannot and will not sell but for the cash, or to customers who pay promptly. For those who purchase very largely, or to sell again, reductions will be made.

The public are cordially and most respectfully invited to call at all times and examine our stock.

From the United States Argus.

To those persons who may visit Washington, and are in want of a boot that cannot be excelled, either in quality or workmanship, we would call their attention to the card of Henry Janney, to be found under the head of "Washington." A handsome and neatly-made boot is not at all times a source of pleasure to the wearer, but often one of extreme torture; this is caused by the bungling manner in which the boot is fitted to the foot. Mr. Janney has devoted much of his time in studying the construction of the human foot, in order to ascertain how a boot should be cut and fitted, that will be perfectly easy to all parts of the foot. In this he has successed, so that it mutters not what may be the shape of or the number of corns on the foot, his boot is perfectly easy. Thus he has combined beauty with comfort.

New York, Jan. 5, 1854.

WILL be sold at private sale, that well-known Parm lying on Seventh street Plank Road, in Montgomery county, Maryland, about eight miles from Washington city, containing 3724 acres, more or loss; about 100 in meadow, 100 in wood, and the balance (1724) in cleared fields. The Farm can be divided into several, giving a fair proportion of wood and meadow land to each. The whole Farm is well wastered, several never-failing streams passing through it. The fencing is good, and there is a large quantity of chestnut timber in the woods, suitable for a further division of the fields.

In po. at of health, beauty, and location, it is not surpassed by any farm in the State of Maryland. It has always been remarkable for its beauty. The dwelling contains eight rooms, kitchen, pantry, &c., garret, cellars, &c., all surrounded by a neat paling, with a pump of good water in the yard; barn, stable, and other out-houses; good spring-house, with a never-failing spring of delightfully cool water attached.

Servants' quarters for as many hands as would ever be necessary on the Farm.

A good apple or shard, and some excellent peaches, pears, cherries, . tc.

The road being now of the very best character, produce from the Farm and manures from the City can be hauled at any and all seasons of the year.

This property will be sold twenty-five per cent. cheaper than any other property on the road between it and the city. With an ordinary horse, it is not more than an hour's drive to the city.

Any communications addressed to CHARLES V. GORDON, Washington, D. C., will receive attention. FARM FOR SALE.

Profitable and Honorable Employment!

THE Subscriber is desirous of having an agent in each county and town of the Union. A capital of I rom $5 to $10 only will be required, and anything hike an efficient, energetic man, can make from three to five dollars per day; indeed, some of the agents now employed are realizing twice that sum.
